A messenger was sent to the Twenty-second-stable in that neighborhood and requested the men to quit work. A messenger was sent to the Twenty-second-stable in the station, and Capt. Cameron detailed policement to preserve the peace. No demonstration was made upon the Cross-Town Railroad shops, which are full of strangers. The B-R Road, which conditionally paid its stableman, treats its horseshoers in like manner. Mr. Clark, who has the contract for horseshoeing on the Sixth ave, pays the picas, and thinks that good management may bring him out with a margin of profit. The contractor for the work on the Fourth-ave, line is also able to pay the scale rates, as is the contractor for the horseshoeing on the Dry Dock lime. Of course the strikers have not visited the stables of either of those lines. The Fourth-ave Railroad shops are empty.

LES PLANOS CHICKERING. From La France Musicale, May 5, 1867.

From La France Mesicale, May 5, 1867.

The curiosity of visitors continues to be fixed on that part of the American section which contains the musical instruments. Since the day when Messrs, Ritter, Pozmanski, Welili, and Mme. Escudier-Kastner revealed to the public the marvelous qualities of the planos of the Messrs, Chickering of New-York and Boston, there is not a pignist, nor even a simple amateur, who has not wished to test, by himself, their superiority over the productions of other American houses. All, without exception, have decided like us, and the public without hesitation has declared for them; it is the decision of the open jury, preceding that of the official jury.

If, before commencing a review of the products of instrument manufacture at the Champ de Mars, we pertinaciously allude to the pisnos sent by the Messrs. Chickering, it is because they seem to us to realize a considerable progress in the structure of the instrument. In fact, their amphtude, their melodic capabilities, their purity and depth of tone, as well as their perfect evenness in the singing power, place them, incontestably, above all, in their great solidity, that they defy all comparison.

We shall describe at some future time wherein lie the comparison.

We shall describe at some future time wherein lie the elements by means of which Mesers. Chiekering have reached the production of such remarkable instruments. Let it suffice for us to say, to-day, that they are the creators of them, the vertiable inventors; and if other makers have followed in their steps, the products of these last can only have the relative value which exists between the original and the copy.

A Wonderful Instrument!

W. G. Richardson, of Davidson's College, N. C., in a letter dated April 23, 1867, writes: "It is a wooderful instrument! I never could have dreamed of its varied capacities and accomplishments. We are delighted with the machine. Dr. D. C. Gariand, late President of the University of Missiscippi, has also one of the Willows & Gibbs Sewing Machines. He requiremented it to me as the best in few world." Advertisance of

OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY OMBANISED IN PURSUANCE OF AN ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK, AUTHORISING THE PORRATION OF CORPORA-TIONS FOR MEDICAL OR CURATIVE PURPOSE

OFFICE NO. 546 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK COVE. was planned and incorporated as a reliable and scientific resort for the treatment of all CHEONIC MEDICAL AND SURGICAL DISEASES. It had its origin from the armal and urgent necessity of the times; for there had heretofore been no place, to our country could apply, and find in one institution that scientific and successwhole human family are subject. The great philanthropic purpose of this organization is to unite, in one corps of physicians and surgeons, the most reliable] and skillful advice and treatment that can be found, for all fected in which experience, reputation, and position will, beyond all doubt, secure the confidence of the American people, and satisfy every reasonable expectation of the afflicted. Whatever can be done for the suffering patient, no matter how obscure or difficult the case may be, is intended to be signe here some of this Institution have each had more than twenty years' expemeet all have been siligent students of medical and surgical scream is callens departments, all are thoroughly independent, and use those medicines which cure the quickest, the safest, and the surrest. ears with entire success. Its extensive patronage has here cause to be developed into an association of far greater extent and useful tree to the sick and a flicted than has over before been known. THREE CLASSES OF PATIENTS.

This organization is designed for the benefit of three distinct classes patients.

First—Those who come to the office for advice and medicine. These will receive personal and prompt attention from the physician of their choice, or the one who specially attends to the disease with which they are severally afflicted.

SECOND—Those who artie for advice and medicine. Such persons must state their synaptoms as plainly as possible; and medicines and advice will be sent to them in any part of the country.

Tainn—Those who wish to remain in the city for treatment, either medical or surgical and who are unable to come to the office doily, will be provided, as far as we are able, with a home where they can be attended.

SEPARATE OFFICES.

SEPARATE OFFICES.

Besides our general reception rooms, each Physician and Surgeon will have his own private consultation spartment, and will receive for advice and treatment such patients as may belong to his department. While ther physician may attend to ordinary diseases, all uncommon, obscur tes himself particularly to that class of diseases; or the patient ma totes himself particularly to that class of diseases; or the pathral may afterward receive the joint advice of the several physicians.

Repeal aftertion will be devoted to rare necloid and surgical cases. All uncommon forms of disease of the brain and nerves, of the heart and imag, of the kidneys, bladder, and uterus, will be most accurately decided upon; and persons who wish an exaduation without treatment, can here secure it. In such examination we shall use every new method and instrument which promises advantages. The Ophthalmoscope, for discovering the diseases of the internal Kye; the Kar Speculium, for the Kar; the Larragoscope, for the Thron; the Stephoscope to detect the diseases of the internal Kye; the Kar Speculium, for the Kar; the Langs; and other diagnostic instrument, in their most improved forms, will be used for the examination of diseased sectoions, excretions, and issues, and other chemists will be in attendance for the examination of utine and other secretions, and to take charge of all smalvals where poincoing (accidental or deedgned) is supposed, or suspected possible.

Dr. Hamilton has devoted special attention to the diseases of the Liver, Lungs and Blood for many years. Soon after his graduation, he because convisced, from observation, that the functions of the Liver were not duly appreciated by medical men; that he relations to diseases not well perform to softire, how must the blood and its office as a blood purifier were not known. If the liver does not well perform to softire, how must the blood which it receives from other organs and returns to the heart irritate the delicate tissues of that syran, and of the lungs. How intimate, too, are the relations of the invertor the innertions of the bowels and kidneys. By much simly and investigation Dr. Hamilton succeeded not only in perfecting his knowledge of the functions and discusses of the fiver, but deviced a system of treatment from newly discovered temedies which was at once successful and scientific. Thus Theoremselve in Present Vessarables, and perfectly safe in any case. By his system of treatment, the liver is not only restored as leadthful activity, but the lungs are freed from having thrown upon them that impure blood which creaters irritation, bronchitis, and consumption. Not is thus all the blood freed is purified, and diseases arising from its impure state are wholly cared or prevented. The views advocated by him for more then twenty years are more adopted by the most of the blood size due to an imperient action of the liver, but that from the non-clinination of morbide matter, diseases of the kidneys and thermatic affections are developed. Miss Annie P. Golby of Condia Village, N. H., writes, March Ib. 1806;

I cannot find language to express my grateful thanks to you, and to a kind Providence for His biesongs on your invaluable remedies. They have trule acted like magic or my system in renoving life to which i have been arthers for many years. My friends and neighbors began to see and tell me how much better I look. I call my health good nea. It has not been so good in more than 30 years. I do not know that I shall need any more medicine. My appetite is good, and everything I rat sets well. Nothing seems to diagree. I think you will have patients from the vicinity soon, as I am re-connecting your treatment to the affirted, and they know how I here improved. I have taken a great many kinds of pills, but never took any equal to your—san ease and so efficacious.
The pressure and rosh of blood to my head, the soreness and pain in my right side and shoulder, and the swelling and bloat, are all gone. I really did not believe it possible that I could be carred of no many like of

"I cannot by any language fully or sufficiently express the thankfulness I feel toward von for restoring me to health, after I had long suffered and been afflicted with many secundry incurable diseases. Letter I was recommended to you I had taken quantities of necktine without any remnerable to results. When I applied to you I had been sick four years, and, among other complaints, I had a cough and raised blood, also the catarth and liver complaint, and was troubled with shertness of breath and pain in the right side. I was obliged to sid in a leaning-forward position, with my head resting upon a stud, so that I could breathe. My breathing was so difficult at times that it seemed as, though each beadin would be the lactors. My case was an uncommon and efficial one, and I thought I could not live. A friend said I ought to have applied to some a year before I did for that my case had become a bad that I could not be belond. It less than one week after I commenced taking your medicines I could see they were doing me good, and in two weeks I could lied down and siegs. I continued to improve rapidly, and after I had taken two packages of your most valuable remedies I felt as well as ever I did. With God's blessing upon your medicines, I was curred; and may He ever biess you and enable you always to do good to the affacted."
